The screenshot shows a web interface for a voice cloning application. At the top, there are controls for "Use embedding from:" with a dropdown menu showing "LibriSpeech/train-clean-360\6395\86708\6395-86708-0". Below this are buttons for "Play", "Record", and "Take generated". There are also sections for "Encoder", "Synthesizer", and "Vocoder", each with a "pretrained" dropdown. On the right, there are "Generate", "Synthesize only", and "Vocode only" buttons. A status log shows: "Playing the generated waveform", "Loading the vocoder vocoder\save_models\pretrained\pretrained.pt", "Loaded the vocoder in 443ms.", "Loading the synthesizer synthesizer\save_models\logs\pretrained\taco_pretrained", and "Loaded the synthesizer in 1352ms.". Below the controls, there are two rows of visualizations. The first row shows "embedding" (a heatmap) and "mel spectrogram" for the file "LibriSpeech/train-clean-360\6395\86708\6395-86708-0011.flac". The second row shows "embedding" and "mel spectrogram" for "LibriSpeech/train-clean-360_6395_gen_81271". On the left side of the interface, there is a "UMAP projections" plot with several colored dots.
